About Photoelectric Smoke Detectors:

A photoelectric smoke detector is characterized by its use of light to detect fire. Inside the alarm, there's a light-sensing chamber. In this chamber, an LED light shoots a beam of light in a straight light across the chamber. The alarm detects smoke; when smoke enters the chamber. It's safe to say every home should have a photoelectric smoke detector. While the ionization smoke detector has been proven more effective in detecting flaming fires, photoelectric alarms outperform it when it is a smoldering fire.

Areas of Application:

- Home
- Boat
- Caravan / Motorhome
- Office
- Summer cottage
